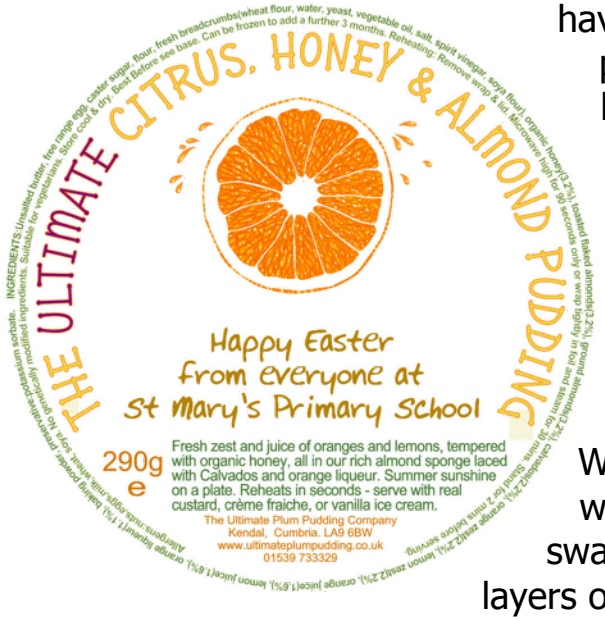
Lovely puddings for Easter (& summer)

Since we started wrapping everything in opaque shiny wrap, we decided that we didn't need to add the red colour to our basins. We were amazed at how crystal clear our plastic bowls then became. It then occurred to us that for a fresh, clean approach to puddings for spring and summer we could wrap in clear cellophane and have these amazing transparent products with customers able to see exactly what they are getting. Very trendy, and a great sales tool when people are so used to opening basins and finding them disappointingly half filled.

As you can see there is space for your text. Text is entirely up to you, as long as it fits in the box on the order form. There are no new flavours but we did rework the citrus pudding last summer to give it a better flavour balance and emphasise the honey more. It was very well received at a major food exhibition in the autumn resulting in a significant order from a top hamper company. Good result we thought for a pudding that always used to come in a poor third behind the runaway success of the chocolate and the steady progress of the ginger.



Prices and details are on the order form and are valid until the end of August. You will see that you have automatically been awarded the discount points for off peak delivery and for standard label design. As usual there are further discounts for quantity and for sticking the labels on yourself. Puddings serve 3-4. They are designed to be served with cream, ice cream, creme fraiche, custard.. whatever takes your fancy. They are perfect, and perfectly easy, for a special meal. Click here for an order form.

We hope you have a splendid Easter and that it will be warm, soft and sunny to welcome the swallows home and let us climb out of our many layers of winter clothing.
